

The New International Law of Fisheries

UNCLOS 1982 and Beyond

WILLIAM T. BURKE

*School of Law
and School of Marine Affairs
University of Washington
Seattle*

CLARENDON PRESS · OXFORD

1994

Contents

Table of Agreements, Conventions, Declarations, Resolutions and Treaties	xiii
Table of Statues	xxiii
Table of Cases	xxvii
1. The Evolution of Extended National Jurisdiction	I
The Post-war Period to 1958	2
The 1945 Truman Proclamation and the Response	6
International Negotiations: The 1958 and 1960 Conferences on the Law of the Sea	9
1960-1970	14
Conclusion	24
2. Coastal Species	26
Introduction	26
Claims and Counterclaims	28
Policy: The Interests at Stake	28
Trend in Decision	29
A. Fishery authority within national territory	30
B. The general scope of coastal state authority beyond national territory: extended national jurisdiction	31
C. Specific components of coastal state authority within the EEZ	43
Appraisal and Recommendation	80
3. High Seas Fisheries	82
The Resources	82
Claims and counterclaims	83
A. Conflicting Claims About Specific High Seas Fisheries	83
B. Claims to Establish a Decision Process	88
Policy: The Interests at Stake	88
A. Common interests in conservation and allocation in a new regime	89

B. Common interests in a new system of governance	91
Trend in Decisions	93
A. Rights of High Seas Fishing States: Freedom of Fishing on the High Seas	93
B. General Obligations of High Seas Fishing States	99
C. Obligations of High Seas Fishing States to Coastal States	131
D. Other general principles relevant to high seas fishing	141
Appraisal and Recommendation	144
 4. Anadromous Species	 151
Introduction	151
Claims and Counterclaims	152
Policy: The Interests at Stake	153
Trend in Decisions	155
A. Northeast Pacific: United States, Canada, and Japan	156
B. North Eastern Pacific: U.S. and Canada	159
C. Northwest Pacific: USSR and Japan	160
D. Unilateral actions regarding salmon	161
E. Third United Nations Conference on the Law of the Sea	162
F. Developments concerning salmon since 1982	172
Conclusion	196
 5. Highly Migratory Species	 199
Introduction	199
Factual Background	200
Claims and Counterclaims	204
Policy: The Interests at Stake	205
Trend in Decisions	210
A. Traditional Fishing Regime for Highly Migratory Species	210
B. The 1982 Convention and Coastal State Rights to Conserve and Manage Fisheries in the EEZ	213
C. Conditions and limitations on coastal state rights regarding HMS	217
D. Authority over fishing within archipelagic waters	234
E. High seas fishing for tuna	235
F. Fish aggregation devices	236
G. CLOS and customary law relating to HMS	238
H. International organizations and tuna management	239

6. Marine Mammals	255
Introduction	255
Factual Background	255
Claims to Authority	259
A. Claims in areas subject to national jurisdiction	259
B. Claims to authority beyond national jurisdiction	260
Policy: The Interests at Stake	264
Trend in Decisions	266
A. Access to marine mammals within national jurisdiction	266
B. Access to marine mammals beyond national jurisdiction	269
C. International agreements to regulate harvest of marine mammals	282
D. The International Whaling Commission	284
Appraisal and Recommendations	302
 7. Enforcement	 303
Introduction	303
Claims and Counterclaim	304
Policy: The Interests at Stake	307
Trend in Decisions	311
 8. Conclusion	 348
 Select Bibliography	 351
Index	375